

Speak Out Safely (Raising Concerns About Patient Care) and Whistle Blowing Policy

SPEAK OUT SAFELY CAMPAIGN

In addition the Trust supports the Speak Out Safely campaign from the Nursing Times whose aim is to make it safe for staff to raise concerns about patient care and safety. This will assist in creating a culture in which staff will be supported if they speak up when they see poor practice or poor standards of care. This is a way of ensuring the Trust is providing safe, consistently high quality care.

SCOPE OF POLICY

This Policy (including the Public Interest Disclosure Act) applies to all workers of the Trust including employees on temporary or fixed-term contracts, 'bank' staff and those working on an "as and when required basis" as well as third party contractors, directors, agency staff, volunteers, freelance workers, apprentices, students, dentists and doctors under statutory schemes and engaged under training contracts.

Please refer to the Flowchart at the end of this Policy.

RAISING CONCERNS

It is the responsibility of all members of staff, either medical, clinical or non clinical, to ensure that high standards of care, treatment and services are provided at all times for patients. From time to time, staff may have concerns about the care or treatment given to any patient(s) and may wish to discuss these with their managers. This section of the policy gives advice to staff who have concerns about patient care, or concerns about processes/service delivery that affect patient care, on how to raise those concerns in cases where whistleblowing may not be appropriate.

By implication this Policy is concerned with the possibility that a member or members of staff are not delivering the standard of patient care expected of them. Making a complaint about the way in which a patient or patient group has been treated may therefore place an individual member of staff in the difficult position of choosing between loyalty to a colleague and the patient's best interests. However, the primary duty of every member of staff is to patients.

All concerns raised by staff about patient care will be dealt with seriously, promptly, and be subject to a thorough and impartial investigation where necessary. Managers have a particular responsibility to protect patients, and to handle concerns about their care in a way that will encourage the voicing of genuine misgivings, while at the same time protecting staff against unfounded allegations. No recriminations will follow reports which are made in good faith about low standards of care or possible abuses. All staff must comply with the Trust Values and put patients at the heart of everything they do.

If staff are uncertain about whether or not to express a concern, it is normally better for them to voice this rather than to remain silent. Often discussing an issue, normally with their immediate manager, will provide an opportunity to view the matter from a different perspective. From there, it can go forward and be dealt with if necessary. Delay in